RE: IN THE MATTER OF A COMMISSION RULEMAKING REGARDING NMPRC RULE 17.7.3
NMAC INTEGRATED RESOURCE PLANS AND PROCUREMENT PROCEDURES
Case No. 21-00128-UT

Dear New Mexico Investor-owned electric utilities and Stakeholders,

On October 27, 2022, the New Mexico Public Regulation Commission revised the Integrated Resource Planning & Procurement Rule 17.7.3 NMAC (the "IRP Rule") for electric utilities. The Commission has initiated a Facilitated Stakeholder Process using the new rule for Public Service Company of New Mexico and Southwest Public Service. These are the first two Facilitated Stakeholder processes conducted under the new rules.

Through the stakeholder processes, the Commission is aware that stakeholders are discussing the range of time an action plan should cover for an IRP using the new rule. To promote a smooth transition from the former to the current IRP Rule, the Commission provides this notice addressing action plan periods.

The IRP Rule defines an action plan as the proposed process and specific actions the utility shall carry out to implement the integrated resource plan spanning a three-year period following the filing of the utility's integrated resource plan. Under the new rule, an IRP will be filed at the end of a Facilitated Stakeholder Process. An action plan for an IRP filed in 2023 should address the utility's plan for 2024, 2025 and 2026.

The IRP Rule also defines a statement of need as a description and explanation of the amount and type of new resources, expressed in terms of energy or capacity, necessary to reliably meet an identified level of electricity demand in the planning horizon and to effect state policies. Planning horizon is not defined, planning period is defined as the future period for which a utility develops its IRP and is 20 years. The IRP rule provides latitude on the length of time for the planning horizon. If a utility through consultation with stakeholders concludes its planning horizon needs to span beyond a 20 year "planning period" to adequately effect state policies, utilities are encouraged to view the 20 year planning period as a minimum period of time, not a requirement.

The new IRP Rule has as an objective of increasing transparency, involving stakeholder participation early in the process, and tying the IRP outcome directly to the procurement process. That this question concerning the start date of an action plan has surfaced during the stakeholder process is evidence that process is meeting the transparency objective. The Commission appreciates the utilities' and stakeholders' commitment to collaboration in helping meet the new rule's objectives.

Sincerely,

Pat O'Connell
Chair
New Mexico Public Regulation Commission
